ISBN: 0-89130-977-2

A survey and indictment of literalism and gullibility within the Western academy. In this controversial work, Jacob Neusner argues that contemporary scholarship on ancient Judaism fails to incorporate the historical-critical enterprise of the nineteenth century. As a consequence of this failure, the study of Judaism—even within the academy—has largely remained pre-critical and in the service of faith. The work of ten contemporary scholars is examined and evaluated in detail.
